

Workshop Title	Time	Location	Sponsoring Organization	Individual/Contact	Description
Detroit Highlighted: Detroit Black Community Food Security Network	Tue, 06/22/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm; Sat, 06/26/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: O2-36	Detroit Black Community Food Security Network	Kwamena Mensah, amenra628@aol.com	We will present and facilitate discussion about our work. Join us.
Detroit Highlighted: East Michigan Environmental Action Council	Tue, 06/22/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm; Sat, 06/26/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: W2-67	East Michigan Environmental Action Council	Ahmina Maxey, ahmina@emeac.org	We will present and facilitate discussion about our work. Join us.
Diesel Pollution and its Connection to the Food Justice Movement	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: W2-65	East Michigan Environmental Action Council	Ahmina Maxey, ahmina@emeac.org	Learn how solutions such as eating locally and putting filters on diesel vehicles, reducing emissions by over 85%, can reduce pollution in your community.
Faith Communities in the Local Food Movement: Sustainable and Just!	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: DO-7B	Presbyterian Hunger Program	Andrew Kang Barlett, andrew.kangbarlett@pcusa.org	Faith communities are digging up their lawns to start community gardens, running gardening camps and training programs, hosting farmers markets and CSAs and working to get healthy food growing in and for impoverished communities from Utica to Uganda. You and participants from the Heaven on Earth Agrarian Road Trip will share stories and the spiritual grounding to make another food economy possible. This workshop will spark new ideas and actions you can take home with you to realize in your own community. Ample time for discussion.
Monsanto, Nestle and Cargill... Oh My! Organizing Against the Corporate Control of Our Public Resources	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Wayne County Community College: 348	Food & Water Watch	Meredith Begin, mbegin@fwwatch.org	Everyone needs to eat. Everyone needs water. How can we organize against the private corporations that are trying to control the things we need?
Sacred Service Living Mandala	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1437	Farm Fresh Choice	gerardo marin, gerardo@ecologycenter.org	Join us in manifesting sacred connection, love and prayer through a living mandala offering to nourish the land and spirits on local community project land.
The Coalition of Immokalee Workers: Fighting for Fair Food	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: W2-68	Coalition of Immokalee Workers	Coalition of Immokalee Workers, workers@ciw-online.org	We'll explore the history and organizing methods of the Coalition of Immokalee Workers, paying particular attention to the Campaign for Fair Food, including recent efforts to hold some of the leading supermarket chains in the U.S. accountable for the sweatshop wages and working conditions in their tomato supply chains.
Blacks and the Land, Social Transformation and Change	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Wayne County Community College: 336	AfroEco	brew001@umn.edu	Black environmental thought, food security and relationship to the land will center this workshop. Workshop participants will leave with a set of practices and ideas which connect land, food and social change.
By Any Greens Necessary: Food as a Tool of Colonization and Joining the Resistance	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1469	The Mill Creek Farm	Jade Walker, kaleliberation@yahoo.com	A popular education workshop investigating our ancestors, the history of the food justice movement, colonization and the personal/collective work that will liberate us.
Excluded Workers Congress	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:30pm	Cobo Hall: D2-15		Ai-jen Poo, aijenp@gmail.com	Where our TSO screeners who have been denied collective bargaining rights will be standing in solidarity with other Excluded Workers, including farm workers, restaurant workers, etc.

Who Says You Can't Change the World: Just Economies and Societies on an Unjust Planet	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1449	Other Worlds	Rachel Wallis, rachel.otherworlds@gmail.com	Our alternative models come directly from the communities building these solutions, working on issues ranging from Zero Waste, Food Sovereignty, Community Control of Knowledge and Media, Water Rights, Access to Health Care and more. Learn about how grassroots movements and communities around the world are building working alternatives to the neoliberal economic model.
Food Sovereignty PMA	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:30pm	Food Justice: food justice tent	Agricultural Missions	Stephen Bartlett, sbartlett@ag-missions.org	PMA for Food Justice and Agricultural Sustainability Movement: Organizations rural and urban involved in food justice and sustainability should come prepared to share their proposals.
How Do Capital Control and Subsidized Loans to Corporate Agribusiness and Aquabusiness Threaten Our Food System?	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:30pm	Cobo Hall: O2-40	National Family Farm Coalition, Northwest Atlantic Marine Alliance	Lisa Griffith, lisa@nffc.net	The panel will discuss strategies for redirecting credit to ensure that farmers and fishers do not go out of business as the recession in our rural communities deepen.
Re-localization and the Role of the Rustbelt: Young Farmers, Urban Farmers & Sustainable.	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	WSU Old Main: 1305	Michigan Young Farmer Coalition	Stefanie Stauffer, ststauffer@hotmail.com	Learn how the Rustbelt provides a key model for effectively embracing more sustainable communities, economies, and agriculture.
Tackling Climate Change on the Global and Local Level	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	Woodward Academy: 1435	DC Metro Science for the People	Srinivasan Raghavan, raghav1@hotmail.com	Understanding and Tackling Climate Change at the Global and Local Level by using renewable energy and sustainable food practices
Brazilian Landless Workers Movement: Uniting the Struggle for Agrarian Reform and Against	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Manoogian: 150	Friends of the MST	Jeffrey Frank, info@mstbrazil.org	The Brazilian Landless Workers Movement: agrarian reform and the struggle against transnational agribusiness.
CEDESA, Women, and the Mexican Food Sovereignty Movement	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: DO-6B	Coalicion Rural Mexico	Ann Ferguson, ferguson3638@gmail.com	Presentation of a Mexican rural development center for small farmers as a model for women's leadership in organizing for food sovereignty.
Converging Storms: The Crises of Energy & Food, Climate & Environment, Capitalism & War	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Manoogian: 289	Studies for Global Justice	Lisa Lubow, llubow@hotmail.com	Offers unique framework for analysis/action, addressing systemically-related crises of energy, capitalism, & environment on a finite earth.
Eco-Justice 101: Ecological Crises, Impacts on Communities of Color, and Strategies for the future	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Cohn: 224	Movement Generation Justice and Ecology Project	jason.negron.gonzales@gmail.com	Communities of color stand to be first and worst impacted by the multiple ecological crises that are developing today. These crises: of water scarcity and pollution, climate change, waste and toxic pollution,
Converging Storms II: The Crises of Energy & Food, Climate & Environment, Capitalism & War	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	WSU Cohn: 224	Studies for Global Justice	Lisa Lubow, llubow@hotmail.com	Offers unique framework for analysis/action, addressing systemically-related crises of energy, capitalism, & environment on a finite earth.
Food Sovereignty: A Building Block for People's Sovereignty	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1443	Grassroots International	Maria M. Aguiar, maguiar@grassrootsonline.org	Speakers from Palestine, Haiti, Detroit and Mississippi show how only Food Sovereignty ensures food security for urban and rural communities in different
Growing the movement for food sovereignty and biodiversity in North America: La Via Campesina resistance to GMOs in Mexico, Canada and the US	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	WSU Old Main: O174	La Via Campesina	Isabella Kenfield, isabella.kenfield@gmail.com	Speakers from La Via Campesina - North America speak on three struggles against genetically-modified crops (GM) in Mexico, Canada and the US. This workshop will focus on the threat posed by GM seed and agrochemical transnational corporations, in particular Monsanto. Our workshop will emphasize the importance of native, heirloom seeds and seed biodiversity to adapt to climate change and for food sovereignty, and how peasants and family farmers are the producers and guardians of these seeds.
Setting Aside the Food Drive-- How Faith Communities Can Be Allies for Justice	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	TWW: 5	Ventura County Clergy and Laity United For Economic Justice	Margaret Sawyer, margaret.sawyer@gmail.com	Congregations have people and power--learn how they can become allies in justice movements. Aprendan como mobilizar congregaciones para ser aliados en la lucha.

Stop Speculators from Driving Up World Food Prices: how workers and university students	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	UAW Building: Mustang	Maryknoll For Global Concerns	David Kane, dkane@maryknoll.org	Learn about a growing campaign of workers and university students who aim to stop speculators from playing with global food prices.
The Hidden Story of Food and Climate Change and What Social Movements are Doing About It	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Woodward Academy: auditorium	Agricultural Missions	Stephen Bartlett, sbartlett@ag-missions.org	Come discuss the role of food in climate change, the power of small-scale farming and agroforestry to restore ecological balance, and the World People's Conference on Climate Change.
The Politics of Exploiting Need: AGRA, the Gates Foundation, and the Food Crisis	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	UAW Building: Taurus	Community Alliance for Global Justice	Heather Day, waal@toolsforchange.org	This popular theater workshop will critique the Gates Foundation and Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa and help the group create democratic, sustainable alternatives.
Stop Speculators from Driving Up World Food Prices: how workers and university students	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	UAW Building: Mustang	Maryknoll For Global Concerns	David Kane, dkane@maryknoll.org	Learn about a growing campaign of workers and university students who aim to stop speculators from playing with global food prices.
Climate Change at the End of your Fork: Organizing locally to change agribusiness as usual	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:30pm	Wayne County Community College: 349	Rainforest Action Network (RAN)	David Taylor, dtaylor@ran.org	Did you know that the global food system is responsible for as much as one-third of all greenhouse gas emissions? That's more than all the world's cars, trucks, trains, planes, ships and factories combined! Join RAN's Rainforest Agribusiness campaign and members of the Working Group on Agribusiness and Climate Change as we present case studies, organizing experiences and lead a discussion on how we can build a movement to change agribusiness as
Biofuels, Biomass, Bio-Economy: One Big Bio-mess!	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	Woodward Academy: 1473	Biofuelwatch	Rachel Smolker, rsmolker@riseup.net	Biofuels and biomass: Building opposition to a colossal threat to human health, rights to food, land, water and the future.
The Future of Genetic Engineering & Other Emerging Technologies: A call to arms for the progressive movement	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	TWW: Fourier	International Center for Technology Assessment	Colin O'Neil, colin@icta.org	New and emerging technologies are threatening human health and the environment. Discussion will focus on social justice implications and the role of the progressive movement.
Food Sovereignty and local Food Systems: alternatives for the people	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Old Main: 1114	CCEDNET	Yvon Poirier, ypoirier@videotron.ca	A growing worldwide movement is building these alternate strategies to fight the WTO agenda. Opportunities and challenges in North America and in other continents.
Keeping Your Services Off the Chopping Block: the Nuts and Bolts of Building Labor-Community Alliances to Protect Public Services	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cabo Hall: D3-17	DC Jobs with Justice	Ruth Castel-Branco rcaste	As unemployment rates continue to rise in areas throughout the US, and people continue to lose their homes in what constitutes the largest loss of land for people of color since the end of reconstruction, the safety net across the nations is crumbling. Using
Social Movement Strategies and Tactics for Rebuilding Local Food Economies	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: DO-01B	Agricultural Missions	Stephen Bartlett, sbartlett@ag-missions.org	Social Movement Strategies and Tactics for Rebuilding Local Food Economies: Grassroots Voices of Agricultural Missions partners from rural and urban peoples' organizations, global south (DR, Haiti) and U.S. on community organizing and empowerment, messaging, food system strategies, tactics and models, with vision of Cooling the Planet and Combatting Poverty and Hunger.
Domestic Fair Trade Association: A Movement Based Approach to Fair Trade	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Cobo Hall: O2-33	Domestic Fair Trade Association	Kerstin Lindgren, dftassociation@gmail.com	DFTA is uniting stakeholders across the food system, building a movement to transform it into one that is healthy, sustainable, and just.
GM crops - the poisoned chalice: perspectives and victories from South Africa	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Cobo Hall: D3-23	International Development Exchange (IDEX)	Rajasvini Bhansali, vini@idex.org	IDEX partner, Biowatch South Africa will present its recent legal victory against the State and Monsanto. Struggles for food sovereignty, biodiversity and sustainable agriculture in the Global South will be explored.
Green Power to the People: How a Garden-based Democracy Can Transform Civic Participation	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	WSU Old Main: 1119	Kingston Land Trust	Valexia, valerialexia@gmail.com	How people in Kingston, NY took back their city with garden based direct democracy and social media for community gardens, green jobs and reduced carbon footprints.

Harvesting Solidarity: Farmworkers, Student/Youth allies, and the Fight for Fair Food	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	WSU Student Center: 289	Student/Farmworker Alliance	Marc Rodrigues, marc@sfalliance.org	The Student/Farmworker Alliance is a national network of students and youth organizing alongside farmworkers to end sweatshops and modern-day slavery in the fields. In alliance with the farmworker-led Coalition of Immokalee Workers, we've been at the forefront of winning some of the biggest victories against corporate greed our generation has seen, and we're just getting started.
Justice for farm workers! How to support farm workers from around the country as they organize for justice	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1470	National Farm Worker Ministry	Lariza Garzon, lgarzon@nfwm.org	Justice for farm workers! How to support farm workers from around the country as they organize for justice If you ate today, you are connected to a farm worker. Most of the food in the United States is handpicked by farm workers. These workers earn very low wages, suffer exposure to pesticides, lack many labor rights and in many cases are victims of physical and verbal abuse. You can help change the food industry so that workers are safe and can live with dignity. Join farm workers in their struggle for justice. Attend this workshop and learn how to do it!
Worker's Struggles for Labor Justice and Sustainability in the Food System	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Westin Book Cadillac Hotel: WB1	Food Chain Workers Alliance	Joann Lo, fcwacoord@gmail.com	Workers along the food chain share stories about their working conditions and the solutions they are forging together to build power.
Keeping It Real: Embodying Alliance in the Quest for Real Food	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:00pm	Cobo Hall: D2-12	Food for the People	Navina Khanna, navinamoon@gmail.com	Mapping the real food movement: art and dialogue to identify, amplify and leverage resources to build strengthened national alliance and action for real food.
Campaigns, coalition building, and organizing to change our campus food systems	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:30pm	Cobo Hall: DO-4C	Real Food Challenge, Student/Farmworker Alliance	Alli Reed, alli.a.reed@gmail.com	This workshop will explore issues within our global food systems and our role as students in the movement to change our food system. This workshop will be highly hands-on and participants will leave with not just knowledge but with the tangible skills we need to act on a global scale.
Food Sovereignty in the US and Beyond: Renegotiating US Food and Farm Policy from the Grassroots	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:30pm	Cobo Hall: DO-5A	Rural Coalition/Coalicion Rural	Lorette Picciano, lpicciano@ruralco.org	Advancing the movement to rebuild the food system in the United States from the grassroots instead of the corporate level and to advocate for substantive changes not achieved in the previous U.S. Farm Bill debate.
Aparigraha: An Economic Paradigm For a Culture of Peace	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	Woodward Academy: 1435	Global Coalition for Peace	Victor Landa, gcfp@earthlink.net	Shares how capitalism is destructive; reclaiming our food supply is essential & ways to start creating an economic culture based on love
From Food Crisis to Food Sovereignty: Proposals for Building a US Food Sovereignty Network	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	WSU Old Main: 1114	WhyHunger	Christina Schiavoni, christina@whyhunger.org	Skyrocketing rates of hunger, coupled with the economic crisis and worsening impacts of climate change, point to the need for a radically different food system. In response, international movements of peasants, farmworkers, fisherfolk, indigenous peoples,
Pathways to Sustainable Self-Governance: Democratic Open-Source Food and Manufacturing Networks	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	Wayne County Community College: 23A	Permaculture Cooperative	Kirstie Stramler, kirstie@permaculture.tv	Worker Cooperative Networks for Sovereignty of Food, Commerce, & Community: Panel/Breakouts/Discussion to Envision & Chart Implementation Framework of Industrial Permaculture Ecology.
Tools for Change: Local Food Policy Councils	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	TWW: 3	Community Food Security Coalition	Emily Becker, emily@foodsecurity.org	This workshop will introduce Food Policy Councils and tools for food justice activists to change the rules of our food systems at a local level.

Other Related Workshops
Environmental Justice: Building Community Power for Health Equity in New York City	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	UAW Building: Lincoln	West Harlem Environmental Action, Inc. aka WE ACT for Environmental Justice	James Burke, burke@weact.org	Capacity building for environmental health and justice is important to build healthy sustainable communities for the future. Community-based solutions must be supported in order to create a shift in the value system of our broader society. The emphasis on environmental protection, equal access and the 17 principles of environmental justice will support the development of a movement that will benefit all people.
Greening the Emerald City: Bringing Together Environmental and Community-based Organizing	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 3:00pm - 5:00pm	Wayne County Community College: 336	Alliance of Community Trainers	Starhawk, stella@mcn.org	Hunters Point Family and Earth Activist Training share our experiences of collaboration and explore how environmental groups and community-based organizations can work together effectively. The Hunters Point Family agency runs programs for at-risk youth that teach conflict resolution, self esteem, food growing and urban agriculture.
Together for Earth: Positive Personal and Community Responses to Climate Change and Peak Oil	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 3:00pm - 5:00pm	WSU Cohn: 220	Local Future	Megan Q. Bachman, megbach06@gmail.com	On a finite and increasingly full planet, the choices we make greatly impact the natural world and all people. Megan Bachman will discuss the state of our climate and energy emergency and how our response to these challenges will shape the world to come. She'll share hopeful stories from individuals around the world making major lifestyle changes and powerful examples from Cuba's oil crisis in the early 1990s, as shown in her film, "The Power of Community: How Cuba Survived Peak Oil." Finally, she'll explore how in the face of global disaster, communities and their local economies can become more strong, sustainable and resilient.
Midwest Radical Cultural Corridor	Wed, 06/23/2010 - 3:30pm - 5:30pm	Cobo Hall: D3-24	Compass	Brian Holmes, brian.holmes@aliceadsl.f r	A convergence for caravanistas, bicyclists and walkers to share their understandings of the radical cultures encountered on the roads to Detroit. Key themes: environmental and social justice, alternative food production, cultures of resistance and grassroots institutions.
Climate Connections: Building the Movement for Social Change	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1436	Global Justice Ecology Project	Anne Petermann, globalecology@qmv.t.net	Climate change must be addressed through diverse, holistic and visionary alliances that address its root causes and transform society based on justice and ecology.

Eco-Justice 101: Ecological Crises, Impacts on Communities of Color, and Strategies for the Future.	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Cohn: 224	Movement Generation Justice and Ecology Project	Jason Negron-Gonzales, jason.negron.gonzales@gmail.com	Communities of color are first and worst impacted by multiple ecological crises. We explore these crises; their impact on us; what we can do to respond; and their relationship to other issues in our communities.
Linking Our Struggles: Exploring How Local Action Can Be a Pathway for International Solidarity	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Old Main: 1111	S.P.R.I.N.G.	Jennifer Jones, jenleejones@gmail.com	What do school garden projects in Berkeley have to do with autonomous peasant movements in Southern Mexico? Participate in a discussion facilitated by a youth collective. Explore how local projects are/can be connected to international movements through mutual aid, consensus, and solidarity.
Our Water Commons: Towards New Freshwater Action and Community-led Water Management!	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Student Center: 283	On the Commons	danielmoss9@gmail.com	From Detroit to Dar es Salaam, water is our collective lifeline yet routinely abused. Participants will share experiences in improving water governance and stewardship to reclaim the water commons. Possible Speakers: Maude Barlow (Council of Canadians); Marcela Olivera (La Red Vida); Mary Ann Manahan (Focus on the Global South - Philippines); Jim Olsen (FLOW for Water); Representative from New Mexico Las Acequias Association
Collaborative Investigation (Co-Razonando) in Times of Crisis: Bridging North and South, Activism and Academia.	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	WSU Manoogian: 150	Social Movement Working Group, Turbulence www.turbulence.org.uk	mosterweil@gmail.com	In this workshop, we will build on our different experiences within social movements as well as international projects of militant or collaborative investigation, to argue for the importance of spaces and projects to cultivate new conceptual and practical frameworks for pursuing activist work.
Landslide Community Farm: A Case Study Opening Space for Grassroots Community-Based Projects	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	WSU Manoogian: 150	Landslide Community Farm	Claire Schoyer, landslide@riseup.net	Members of Landslide and a staff attorney from Regional Housing Legal Services present the experience at Landslide as a case study on how a small radical collective was able to navigate the complex boondoggle of city bureaucracy and urban development organizations, to transform a blighted area into a community based urban farm and model for urban sustainable living.
Youth-Lead Activism in NYC's Public High Schools	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	Westin Book Cadillac Hotel: WB2	Support Darfur Project	Nisrin Elamin, nisrin7@gmail.com	This interactive workshop is designed and lead by Global Kids youth leaders involved in mobilizing for change around different social justice issues affecting their communities locally and globally. They will share their experiences through film and engage participants in interactive activities aimed at promoting youth led activism in other parts of the country.
Emerging Strategies to Re/Claim the Commons	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:00pm	Cobo Hall: D3-17	On the Commons	Alexa Bradley, 4alexabradley@gmail.com	US and Global South participants will explore commons strategies to restore a direct relationship between communities, vital resources and resource decisions
A World in Crisis and the People's Agenda for a Democratic and Just Response	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:00pm	Cobo Hall: D2-14	IBON North America, Anak Bayan East Bay	Katrina Abarcar, kabarcar@ibon.org	People's analysis and response to the global crisis and its grave, multi-faceted impact on the economy, environment, food, energy, and peace.
Prioritizing Africa & the African Diaspora Agenda from Detroit to Dakar (D2D)	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:00pm	Cobo Hall: W2-69	Priority Africa Network (PAN)	Nunu Kidane, nunukidane@att.net	This PMA brings together organizations and individuals to review historic challenges towards the people and the continent of Africa. This PMA will analyze multiple issues ranging from militarization, gender, land rights and food sovereignty, climate change, democracy and governance, health and HIV/AIDS and corporate accountability as relate to Africa and the African diaspora.

The Silent Crisis: Our Noise is Not Loud Enough!	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 1:00pm - 5:00pm	Cobo Hall: DO-6B	itsJUSTwater	Garry Owens, garrygo@me.com	Come and aim your moral compass and your organizing and activism to this new effort to "do something" to cease and prevent the human tragedy of 200 poor children under five dying every hour around the globe from drinking dirty water filled with human and animal waste.
Women, Feminism, Economic Crisis, and the Solidarity Economy	Thu, 06/24/2010 - 3:00pm - 5:00pm	Woodward Academy: 1449	International Association for Feminist Economics	Mai Perches, maimails@gmail.com	Feminist economists & activists discuss solidarity economy practices and institutions as providing transformative, feminist solutions to capitalism's crises
Student Research on Boston's Solidarity Economy	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	TWW: 1	Students for a Cooperative Economy (SFACE)	Korrie Xavier, korrie@gmail.com	We, Wellesley College students, will present our research on the Boston solidarity economy and our cooperative learning methods. We will present our cooperative research project on worker, consumer, and housing cooperatives; alternative currencies; fair trade distributors; urban gardens and the food sovereignty movement; solidarity consumption such as freecycling, freeganism, swap meets; socially responsible investment groups and community capital.
The Collapse of Empire. The Future of Community: Jobs, Food, Money & Energy	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 10:00am - 12:00pm	WSU Student Center: 289	Local Future	Aaron Wissner, aaron@localfuture.org	Peak oil. Money reform. Environmental crisis. Inspiration & strategies for social change to cultures of equity, sustainability and justice.
This Land is Our Land: A Model for Community-Centered Planning & Organizing for Community Benefits	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 1:00pm - 3:00pm	TWW: 3	Georgia STAND-UP	Melissa Conrad, melissa@georgiastandup.org	This workshop will provide tools & strategies for winning Community Benefits Policies & Agreements through community organizing and participatory research.
New Media and Social Movements	Fri, 06/25/2010 - 3:00pm - 5:00pm	WSU Old Main: 1133	Santa Barbara Student Housing Co-op	Jacob McCollum, mccollum.jacob@gmail.com	By show casing everything from simple wikis and online communities to other cutting edge technologies to promulgate the spread of techniques and ideas that have been kicking around since the Neolithic. We've gathered examples of what people are doing in social, political and sustainability movement (stuff) and what other people are doing to utilize new media in other movements (communication) and have synthesized the two (communicating stuff). In addition we provide resources and tools for making the most of the latest technologies and organizational tools and a "general how to" guide to using the Internet to achieve your goals. Participants will leave with an understanding of the new media as social change tapestry and a set of resources that will enable them to make a few new stitches of their own. We have gone to great lengths to insure our presenters represent as wide a gamut of identities as possible.